Interacting with the students, Gopal Das forwarded them great coaching for and about life: “Whether you are looking at strengthening your relationships, discovering your true potential, understanding how to do well at work, or even how you can give back to the world; just start growing through life, stop going into life. Find your purpose in life and the key to lasting happiness. Keep this ever in mind that positive attitude is the key to success in life. Feed your faith, your doubts shall starve to death.” Gaur Gopal Das, used gas balloons as an analogy to explain it to the students that “ The colour of the balloons doesn’t define whether the balloon will float, the colour is just the skills , the talent, the charisma of a person, it’s what inside the balloon that makes it float and go higher. It's the Attitude of a person that makes him go higher and be successful". This Attitude needs 3 C's to get it right, that being Choice, Challenge, and Change.
